FINKENBINDER AGAIN IN JAIL

D. Rolla Finkenbinder, Alleged Bigamist, Arrested in Western Part of State and Brought back here. Awaits Trial.

D. Rolla Finkenbinder, the alleged bigamist who skipped out after his father-in-law Joseph Thomas, of near Gettysburg, had produced $6000 bail, for his appearance for trial at August Court, was captured at Saegertown, Crawford County, by the chief of police on Tuesday and brought to Gettysburg this morning by County Detective Charles H. Wilson who went on to Saegertown as soon as the capture was learned. Finkenbinder is now lodged in the Adams County jail awaiting trial at November term of Court.

The case will be one of the most interesting which has come up for trial in this county for some time. The man now has two wives, the second of whom was Miss Jennie Thomas, of near Gettysburg, before her marriage on February 20 last in the local Catholic church, by Rev. Dr. Dougherty who knew nothing of the former marriage of the groom.

Some time after the second marriage Mrs. Finkenbinder No. 1, who lived in Harrisburg, learned of it and made an investigation. She found the facts true and at once took steps for his arrest. He was arrested here by Chief Shearer as he stepped from a train. After a hearing before Squire Hill he gave bail for his appearance at Court.

Finkenbinder claims as his defense that he thought the divorce for which he had been suing in Franklin County Court, had been granted and that he was legally separated from his first wife at the time he married Miss Thomas. He brought the action on grounds of desertion and says he had been informed by his attorney that the divorce would be granted on a date prior to that on which he married Miss Thomas. He took it for granted that this had been done and his second marriage followed.

On July 23 Finkenbinder was refused a divorce from his first wife in Franklin County Court and as a result he now lays claim to two. All the testimony had been taken and the divorce case, it is said, practically concluded when Mrs. Finkenbinder, who had not appeared at any of the hearings, made a request to offer testimony and this held up the granting of the decree which would have made Finkenbinder free to marry again. He claims he knew nothing of the delay until after his second marriage.

The case charging Finkenbinder with bigamy was listed for trial at August term of Court. Joseph Thomas had secured his release from jail some weeks previous by putting up cash bail for his appearance at August court but he failed to show up and it was feared Mr. Thomas, who could ill afford to lose the money, would have to forfeit the bail. An extension of time was secured from the Court in which to produce Finkenbinder and the case was given over into the hands of Detective Wilson.

It proved a difficult task to locate the fugitive but it was finally found that he was in the northwestern part of the state and the services of an officer at Saegertown, a village of about 1500, were secured by telephone. He succeeded in arresting the man and holding him until the arrival of Mr. Wilson.

Finkenbinder was arrested by the Saegertown policeman just as he was about to board a train to go to Corry to meet his second wife whom he had sent money to join him.

According to the "Tribune Republican" of Meadville Finkenbinder had been employed for the last two months by the T. A. Gillespie Construction Company as engineer and made a host of friends who visited him and expressed their sympathy. On Tuesday after his arrest, the Meadville paper says, he visited all the merchants in Saegertown, paid his bills and told them he was going away. He was very well thought of there and his arrest was a great shock to his many friends.

Mr. Wilson started as soon as possible on his return and reached Gettysburg this morning with his prisoner.

STRUCK IT RICH

Ferdinand McElfrich and family who have been visiting friends in Gettysburg have returned to their home in Lawrence County, Illinois, where Mr. McElfrich was one of the fortunate ones when the rich oil belt was located a few years ago. He says that he went to bed one night comfortably poor and was awakened by cheering to find oil spouting many feet in the air. He is now the owner of three farms with ten oil wells on them and his daily income averages $300.

DOUBLE TRACKING WORK IS DELAYED

One-Tenth as Many Laborers Working on Double Tracking Reading Road as are Desired. May Give Work to Contractors.

Because of the great scarcity of laborers in this section work on double tracking the Reading road between Gettysburg and Mount Holly Springs, in preparation for next year's battle anniversary, is being seriously retarded. On Wednesday there were twenty six men employed, instead of two hundred, the number which the company would like to have engaged on the work.

So serious has the difficulty become that the Reading is now considering the matter of letting the work to contractors instead of proceeding with their own men as was originally the plan. The work on the new freight house has also been temporarily stopped. It is desired to get all of this work completed at the very earliest possible date.

Even with the small force the operations have been going along right well and some of the grading is finished. Track has been laid to the new freight house and the men now at work are losing no time in their activities.

The shortage of laborers is bothering not only the Reading road but all others in this section who have construction operations on hand. The state highway force has been hindered for weeks on this account and everywhere is heard the complaint that day laborers cannot be secured. Operations in the town have been delayed from this same source and only on Tuesday night the town council found it necessary to offer more money for the services of day laborers.

It is expected that, with the return of cold weather, many now employed in this way will be thrown out of work and the activities which can be carried on during the winter will then be supplied with hands.

MANY WATCH FOOT BALL PROGRESS

Gettysburg Has Heavy Schedule ahead which is giving Coaches, Players and Enthusiasts Much Concern. New Players.

Football enthusiasts in town and at college have been watching with considerable interest and no little apprehension the development of the squad on Nixon Field, since the opening of the season several weeks ago, and are now thoroughly aware of the fact that the eleven has a big proposition ahead of it in the coming games of the season.

The Penn game was a disappointment, the Lebanon Valley game a surprise and the coming Ursinus match a speculation. Ursinus met Penn on Wednesday and, though defeated by a score of 34 to 0, carried the ball 73 yards in the first period and held Penn scoreless in the first and last quarters, giving one of the best exhibitions seen on Franklin Field this year. The Ursinus team has several stars who will likely prove big factors in the game at Collegeville on Saturday.

Mount St. Mary's, Bucknell, State, Dickinson, Rochester and Muhlenberg are all yet to be played and if Gettysburg is to get away with anything like a creditable showing some rapid development must be made quickly. Leatherne has joined the squad, adding speed and strength to the backfield. He played against Penn last year and was easily the star of the game. Owing to his track activities he has always hesitated to take part in football but has finally been prevailed upon to help out this season.

Mehaffie, a new student kept out of the game on account of trouble with his foot, was in practice Wednesday evening and his punting was most encouraging. He is a former Perkiomen Seminary player and, if able to continue in the game, will doubtless be a first team man.

Couch Philippy, with his large and able corps of assistants, is working hard to bring the big squad into shape and all are well pleased with the progress made up to this time but this does not relieve the anxiety about the future nor the necessity for continued hard work on the part of the players.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS ELECTION

At a regular meeting of Hanover Council, Knights of Columbus, held Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: G. K., J. Preston Smith, of McSherrytown; D. G. K., Edward F. Poist, of McSherrytown; chancellor, Charles A. Kuhn, of Hanover; recording secretary, Raymond Staub, of Hanover; financial secretary, F. X. Kuhn, of Hanover; treasurer, F. X. Weaver, of McSherrytown; advocate, Hon. Wm. McSherry, of Gettysburg; warden, Joseph A. Brenner, of Hanover; I. G., Joseph Eck, of Hanover; O. G., Basil Little, of Hanover; trustee (3 years), Louis W. Smith, of Hanover; 1st alternate to state convention, Charles L. Bubb, of East Berlin; 2nd alternate, George E. Stock, of Gettysburg.

After the election of officers, addresses were made by several prominent members of the order.

Members were present from York, Gettysburg, Littlestown and other places.

UNKNOWN MAN KILLED

An unidentified white man was struck by a Western Maryland train near Mount Wilson and instantly killed. His body was taken to Pikesville, where a coroner's jury was summoned by Justice of the Peace Smith, which rendered a verdict of accidental death. The dead man was well dressed, and his appearance gave every indication of refinement, although he had only two cents in money in his pockets at the time he was killed. There were no marks on his clothing nor papers on his person to give a clue to his identity except a small piece of paper on which was written E. Cabert, 1519 West Baltimore street.

FAUST

Many good plays have outlived their usefulness, but "Faust", this wonderful and fascinating work of Goethe's, goes on forever. The reasons for this are many fold. It's a beautiful story, unfolded in such a simple manner in an environment shrouded in the mystery of the hereafter, its wonderful electrical display, its broken scene, all go to make it preeminently popular. The production this season is said to be entirely new and the most elaborate and up-to-date ever seen in this immortal drama and the cast contain many names well known to fame. CASHTOWN

Cashtown, Oct. 10.—At this writing we are having fine weather for the crop and for the apple picking and packing which is on at this time. The large fruit growers as well as the smaller one are busy barreling their winter fruit which has been sold to different buyers.

The clover seed crop through this section is pronounced a large crop. It seems well filled.

On Tuesday Mrs. George Plank, of near this place, was peeling quinces. In taking out the core of a quince the knife slipped into her right hand and cut a gash in the palm of about 2 1/2 inches which had to be stitched by the doctor. Mrs. Plank is not able to do any work.

The Cashtown Grange will hold their annual fruit exhibit in the near future. Look for their date in The Times.

Quite a number of our people took in the York fair this week. As there are such good accommodations on the Western Maryland some had to start two or three times before they finally got on their journey.

Mrs. C. A. Harding, of Washington, D. C., is visiting her two sisters and other friends in this place.

D. A. Mickley bought the George Lavender property and a piece of ground adjoining from John D. Heintzleman on High street, on private terms.

Owing to the shade trees the Standard Oil Company are taking their telegraph line from Main street, and coming in the back alley. This will be the next move for the telephone people as the people of our town say no more trimming the shade trees. The back alleys are the place for poles and why should we have our town or any town disgraced with poles standing in front of the houses or wires to spoil the nice shade trees.

YORK SPRINGS

C. C. Slaybaugh has purchased the farm or his father, the late H. H. Slaybaugh in Butler township, and intends moving thereon shortly.

EXPECT GOOD HUNTING

According to reports the hunting season this year will provide excellent sport. The woods and fields, it is said, have more game than for many years, including squirrels. Rabbits are plenty and quail on a par with last season, although the past winter was a severe one and they had to be protected by the farmers from starvation. Sportsmen will find that the farmers irritated by damage done in past years, are already placing warnings against trespassing to all gunners.

WILL MANAGE FARMS

Albert A. Miller, one of Huntington township's most progressive farmers, has accepted a position as foreman of the Beaufort Farms, near Harrisburg for next year. A. D. Bower has been manager of the farms for the past eight years.

A Mighty Remedy

Cures Backache, Stomach, and all Kidney, Liver and Bladder Diseases, or Money Back

Yes, money back; that's the offer that People's and Huber's Drug Stores the agent in Gettysburg makes if Thompson's Barosma fails to cure any of the above named diseases.

And when you stop to think, that's a wonderfully generous offer from the viewpoint of the afflicted, the sick and the suffering.

So if you are ill, have the blues, have lost ambition, have backache or pains in your side, if your urine is high colored, and your eyes dull and complexion sallow, the chances are that your kidneys are weak and clogged up and that your blood is full of impurities.

So why wait when Thompson's Barosma is guaranteed to restore your health. Get a bottle today at People's or Huber's Drug Store. There are two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00.

Five years ago Charles Schultz of Dunkirk, N. Y., was so weak and run down that he decided to give up his business. He took Barosma, and in a few months he regained his health, gained 55 pounds in weight. Today he writes: "I have been in perfect health ever since I wrote you five years ago." All druggists.

Many a Gloomy Countenance in Gettysburg Now Lightens with Happiness.

A bad back makes you gloomy. Can't be happy with continual backache.

The aches and pains of a bad back are frequently due to weak kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills are recommended for weak kidneys.

So grateful citizens testify.

Mrs. C. Culp, 423 Washington St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "We still use Doan's Kidney Pills in our family and find the very good. A member of our family had an attack of kidney complaint after the measles and was left with weak kidneys. He also had backache and pains in his sides and whenever he lifted, he was in distress. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended and he gave them a trial. We never thought a medicine could give relief so quickly. I can recommend this preparation to anyone who is afflicted with kidney complaint."

BOSTON DEFEATS GIANTS, 4 TO 3

Red Sox Win First Game in World Series.

WOOD FANNED II BATTERS

Hard Hitting in the Seventh Inning Sent Tesreau to Bench and Gave Boston the Game.

STANDING OF THE CLUBS.

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Boston	1	0	1.000
New York	0	1	.000

New York, Oct. 9. — A base ball game which was splendidly fought, ushered in the world's series at the Polo Grounds amphitheater. By a score of 4 to 3 the Red Sox, of Boston, became the conquerors of the Giants, of New York.

It was a game well fought in the spirit of its sportsmanship and its actual work on the field. It was clean won, cleanly lost. The credit of a victory fairly and squarely won by the Bostonians is paralleled by a defeat which reflects credit on the defeated, for in losing the game the Giants came out of it with their portion of praise.

A grim, game rally by the Giants in the ninth inning had the multitude a tangle with excitement and among the Giant rooters, hope.

There was both alarm, menace and glory for Joseph Wood, a pitching paragon in his own set and the red hope of Boston, in this ninth inning rally. First gouging him for three hits and putting one run over, two Giants there were hovering on the bases, with one out. Another hit or the slightest break in the Boston defense and one, perhaps two men, would have dashed for the plate. The dash, alas, never came. Summoning all the speed he had and with a final twist of his supple wrist Wood's smoke ball came through with such quips and quivers that two Giants struck out and left two comrades fettered to the bags. This, the game's most dramatic moment, came as a climax.

Inning to inning the score fluctuated. The Giants held a lead of two runs to the sixth inning, then it dwindled to one. In the next inning, the period in which they mustered their hits and solved Tesreau for the first and only time, the Red Sox jumped to the front by two runs, and in the ninth that advantage was cut to one run. The Bostonians played a resolute, uphill game and the giants made a gallant uphill fight to re-establish themselves. The effort failed, but it bespoke valor and class. The score:

AUTOMOBILE RIDERS DANGLE IN MIDAIR

Party Near Death When Car Falls From Bridge.

Coatesville, Pa., Oct. 9.—C. H. Town send, a garage owner at Atglen, Pa., and three friends were almost miraculously saved from death when the automobile in which they were riding plunged through the railing of the high bridge over the Pennsylvania railroad tracks here.

The heavy machine, with its human occupants, dropped fifteen feet and then its rear wheel caught on the heavy double twisted guy wires used to support the structure.

With a sudden jolt the automobile caught and hung suspended ten feet above the earth. Its occupants, one of them a woman, although thrown forward, did not fall from the car.

Brained and half-stunned, they all clung to the automobile, swaying to and fro on its comparatively frail support. Persons who had seen the accident rushed to the bridge expecting to see them crushed beyond recognition at the bottom of the ravine through which the railroad runs.

When the car was seen suspended on the wires, ropes were let down from the bridge and Townsend and his guests were dragged from their perilous position to safety. An automobile was hired at a local garage, and in this the party returned to Atglen.

ROOSEVELT $100,000 EDITOR

Munsey Ready to Pay Him That in Event of Defeat at Polls.

New York, Oct. 9.—Frank A. Munsey, owner of the New York Press, said that he knew nothing about a report that Colonel Theodore Roosevelt would become editor of the Press after Nov. 6, in the event of his defeat at the polls.

He would be willing to pay Colonel Roosevelt $100,000 a year, and believed he would make money at that, but he did not think Colonel Roosevelt would accept. Mr. Munsey made this statement: "I do not mind saying in this connection that the salary that has already been fixed up in Park Row, $50,000 a year, would not stand in the way. Indeed, I think I could make money in my publishing business on Mr. Roosevelt on a salary of $100,000 a year."

Knowledge a Dangerous Thing.
"I suppose," said the man who was lounging in the garage, "that before a man buys an automobile he ought to learn all about its working parts and its complicated machinery."
"I'm not so sure about that," guardedly answered the keeper of the establishment. "If he does, by George, the chances are that he won't buy it!"

Her Hint.
"God never intended man to live alone," he said.
"I suppose not," she sadly replied, "and I often wonder if he really intended that so many married women should live alone."
Then he thought better of it and decided not to go downtown that night.

MRS. CHARLES BECKER.

Wife of Policeman on Trial For Murder of Rosenthal.

1912, by American Press Association.
Mrs. Becker is sticking to her husband and was in court when his case was called for trial before Justice Goff.

GET ELEVEN JURORS TO TRY BECKER

Judge Hastens Case of Accused Policeman.

New York, Oct. 9.—With eleven jurors in the box at the close of the afternoon session of the trial of former Police Lieutenant Charles Becker for the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, Justice Goff announced that he would hold an extra session of the court, which would continue until the selection of the jury was completed.

The jurors were all prosperous looking business men, square jawed blue eyed, with two exceptions, and of intellectual appearance. In age they ranged from thirty-five to forty-five and all were married men with children, a point which Becker, who is married, insists upon as a necessary qualification. One of the jurors was named Becker.

They consisted of Harold B. Skinner, an electrical salesman, foreman, Robert C. Purcell, a manufacturing chemist, John B. Hardy, a retired merchant, Edward C. Soule, an auditor, W. F. Wood, a woolen merchant, Dow J. Becker, a lumber merchant, Charles J. Peatt, commissary agent for a railroad, and Leslie A. Ware, a wholesale baker.

Becker's face never left the face of the man who was being questioned save now and then to glance over his shoulder toward where his wife sat at one side of the courtroom. She was always ready with a smile. Each time the big, sullen faced police lieutenant would turn back to the routine of summing up the testimony with a look of renewed confidence.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 9.—One man was killed and another seriously injured in a runaway of a team of horses in this city.

The team, drawing a load of bricks, bolted, and two blocks away crashed into a telegraph pole. The driver, Joseph Bohan, was thrown headfirst from the wagon and was picked up unconscious.

Jacob Stahlheber, who was passing the spot, was unable to get out of the way and was hurled against the pole. He died half an hour later in the state hospital. Bohan will recover.

PLAN AND SCOPE IS MADE PUBLIC

Water Conservationists of State Publish Their Bylaws

WANT TO REGULATE RIVERS

Association Aims to Enlarge Powers of Water Supply Commission to Deal With the Use of One of the State's Most Valuable Assets.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 10.—The plan and scope of the new Water Conservation Association of Pennsylvania has been adopted and the officers are busy with a statewide campaign of education, the aim of which is to crystallize public sentiment on legislation to be urged at the approaching session of the legislature to enlarge the powers of the State Water Supply Commission to enable it to cope with the many problems surrounding the water resources of the state.

The new association was formed for the purpose of procuring such legislation as it is a well known fact that the state is not only not getting the revenue it should from the rivers and streams, but that also the unregulated rivers do tremendous damage each year by causing floods. The members of the association are those interested in the conservation of the state's water resources from many standpoints. The bylaws of the association illustrate the objects and are as follows:

"Article 1—Name: This organization shall be known as 'The Water Conservation Association of Pennsylvania.'"

"Article 2—Object: The object of this association shall be to obtain, by publicity, conference and otherwise, co-operation of individuals, associations and companies, interested in water conservation, to secure adequate legislation under wise state supervision, necessary to the broadest and best utilization of the waters of the state."

"Article 3—Members: All membership shall be personal and representative as far as possible of all the various water concerns, civic organizations, engineering societies, flood protection committees and all others interested in these questions."

"Members shall be elected by the association."

"Article 4—Officers: The affairs of the association shall be conducted by the following officers, namely, president, secretary, treasurer and an executive committee of seven. Five of the executive committee shall be chosen by the members with a right to add to their number, and other officers shall be elected by the executive committee."

"The duties of the president shall consist of presiding at meetings, formulating plans for co-operation, soliciting funds, extending the influence of the association, delivering addresses, preparing articles upon the objects of the association and arranging for publicity."

"All disbursements shall be subject to the approval of the president."

"The duties of the secretary shall be to keep all records and books, solicit funds and inform members of the progress of the work."

"The treasurer shall keep all accounts and pay vouchers only upon the approval of two of the officers of the association and furnish monthly to each member of the executive committee a statement of his receipts and disbursements."

"Article 5—Office: The general office of the association shall be at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania."

"Article 6—Meetings: Meetings of the association shall be held upon call of the executive committee. Meetings of the executive committee shall be held upon call of either the president or secretary. Three shall constitute a quorum of the executive committee."

"Article 7—Changes: These bylaws may be changed by majority vote of the executive committee, which may be by letter ballot, if necessary."

A plan of campaign has been adopted which consists of sending letters to all companies, associations and publicists who are likely to be interested in this work; and as the work of publicity and education will take considerable money voluntary contributions are solicited from any who feel so inclined and impressed with the importance of the work. It is also planned that the president shall deliver addresses before various societies, boards of trade, civic organizations, etc., throughout the state, explaining the purposes of the work and particularly to suggest the organization of flood committees throughout the state.

Mountain Sides Profitable.

To buy a piece of forest land for $136,000 and to sell, twenty years afterward, the larger trees on it for $816,000, is a "deal" said to have been put through by George W. Vanderbilt from his estate in North Carolina. Mr. Vanderbilt has carefully bound the lumbermen by a contract which forbids them to destroy any little trees. As a result in twenty years or so more Mr. Vanderbilt or his heirs will have another forest as good as this one, or better, to sell, and by that time he or they will doubtless get for it a much larger price.

Get a separator.

Old ewes are unprofitable.

Plant cowpeas in the orchard.

The value of a cow is hard to guess.

Don't forget to brace the end post of any fence or trellis.

Pigs that show signs of thumps should be forced to take exercise.

A little vaseline rubbed into cuts or chapped teats will soon heal them up.

Commercial fertilizer, when properly used, will increase the yield of crops.

The silo is a time saver when it comes to feeding a large number of animals.

The wheel hoe will save many a backache and do the work of three hand hoes.

Fruit trees should never be planted on the lawn, as they cannot be profitably worked.

If more farmers were tied down by dairies, fewer of them would be tied down by debts.

Three-pail feeds a day for the young calf are none too many. That is more like Nature's way.

Wheat bran has just the elements in it that sheep and lambs need to make good growth.

About 23 pounds of average milk should furnish enough cream to make a pound of butter.

Powdered charcoal in the feed is good for bowel trouble and plenty of grit has the same effect.

The best method of dehorning is to rub a little caustic potash on the calf's little knobs when a few days old.

After chicks are a week old whole Kaffir makes about as good a single grain as can be fed to make weight.

Wood ashes are valuable to spread around fruit trees for small fruits and vegetables; they should not be wasted.

You will appreciate the difference between low-headed and high-headed trees when you are picking the crop.

It is generally conceded that the best time to sell chickens is from the first of January to the first of November.

The garden can and should be made the most productive and most profitable plot of ground on the farm. It should not be overlooked.

The sheep manure as a fertilizer has no equal, and no manure spreader has ever been invented that is as satisfactory as the sheep itself.

The check rein has no place on the harness of a man who cares for his horses, and desires for them comfort and freedom when at work.

If your horse is a mule, remember to speak kindly to him whenever you fasten the traces. The same rule applies when he is only a "boss."

Corn silage and alfalfa make an excellent ration for dairy cows, and good yields of milk have been reported where nothing else was fed.

The old neglected orchard, with its dead leaves and wormy apples, is a blot on the face of the earth. Trim, spray, cultivate and get big returns.

Nothing is so salable in the stock line just now as a good dairy cow. The raising of purebred milk cows as an industry should receive more attention.

The hand separator is good in theory, but the majority of farmers do not keep their cream as they should, nor deliver it to the creamery often enough.

The reason why so many of our beautiful plants and vines are destroyed by bugs is because we are too lazy or unqualified to fight them all the time.

It will pay to buy wheat bran to mix with the barley or corn meal for feeding cows. Bran and good barley meal, half and half, makes good meal for milk.

One reason why it is well to let the new calf run with the mother a day or two is because it is better able to take the swelling from the udder than the hand milker is.

Burn the diseased branches so that the other trees will not be contaminated. It will also be advisable to open the heads of peach trees, remove the surplus branches and take off the water sprouts.

Avoid sudden changes in the feed of your hogs. Diminish the old feed gradually and make up the shortage with the proportionate amount of the new. Sudden changes in diet will retard development.

A good, balanced feed for a horse is one quart of oats and one of bran twice each day, when idle, and three times a day when at work—substituting corn for oats occasionally; and half a bundle of fodder, or one good forkful of hay, three times a day at regular hours.

WHEN MR. PHILBIN WENT ON THE STAGE

By FLORENCE NEYHART.

"Speaking of trials," said Mrs. Philbin in a conversational tone, "Albert has gone on the stage!"

"Not really?" the other women shrieked after they had caught their breaths.

"No," said Mrs. Philbin, "not really—just on the amateur stage. But it's lots worse than real acting. I don't know anything better calculated to make a staid, grown-up man kick up his heels, buy new neckties and generally conduct himself in a kittenish way than a request that he lend his presence to an amateur production. It bolsters him up in his secret conviction that he is a perfect mine of undiscovered genius."

"Oh, no!" he said at first. "You don't want me! I never acted in anything in my life and I can't do it! I'd ruin the piece! Get some one else! I'd ruin the piece! Get some one else!" Afterward he told me that he hated to disoblige them but he really couldn't do it. I congratulated him on his good sense, whereupon he looked at me as though he had caught me trying to poison him. He said he regretted to see how little confidence I had in his ability and was pained at my exhibition of jealousy.

"Then he raced to the 'phone and told the committee that just to oblige them and help them out of a hole he'd take the part."

"After that Albert was lost to the family. He passed three whole evenings running his hands through his hair and memorizing his part. If I spoke to him he would stare at me wildly as though he belonged to another sphere and resented my advent into it."

"After he went to the first rehearsal life became very hard at home because Albert took to going over what he called the 'business' of his part. It is disconcerting to have a man, even if he is your husband, rush at you from behind portieres and wander about with the furniture in his hands muttering to himself!"

"Mrs. Lemmock called one evening and walked in just as Albert tore through from the dining room into the parlor shaking his fist and yelling, 'I have you now, you moral leper, and your life—your life is not worth an hour's purchase!' You can't blame Mrs. Lemmock for taking it personally, especially as Albert's fist was flourished within an inch of her nose."

"During this time if I remarked to Albert that the cook was going to leave he would stare at me and say, 'So—at last, Montmorency, I have unmasked you!' It was impossible to carry on any conversation with Albert for weeks. He was always bursting out with bits of his part. Finally he insisted on my learning the part that dovetailed with his so that he could practice at home."

"Now, I love my husband and always try to please him, but I consider this my crowning act of self-sacrifice. Of course Albert was working for public applause, but if any one wants to know what is my idea of zero in pleasant pastimes I should mention rehearsing a part that you aren't going to play. Anyhow, it's upsetting to have your own husband lean over you tenderly, gaze into your eyes and make desperate love to you in dime novel style! It makes you feel so queer!"

"By the third rehearsal Albert had begun to talk about his art and to speak of well known stage people by their first names. He mentioned the public as though he had it eating out of his hand and he adopted the stage walk. When he stalked downstairs he thudded like a camel and when he stalked upstairs I always thought of elephants. He knocked all the bric-a-brac to pieces parading through the rooms and when he talked he either boomed or hissed. He demanded potatoes in a voice of tragedy and took to standing before mirrors in profile, frowning over his shape. He said the mirrors were old and worn out and gave him a curve out instead of a curve in."

"He got terribly fretful and when I objected he told me that I should make allowances for the artistic temperament and that the stage manager had told him if he had gone on the stage when he was a youth he undoubtedly would have rivaled Mansfield. Albert gloomed and tyrannized and had me jumping six ways at once hunting up his costume and buying grease paint and eyebrow pencils and false hair and letting him repeat his part to me and assuring him that he was entrancing in it."

"When I was worn to shreds the play was given and I had my revenge. I went around into the wings to see if Albert needed any help and fell over a shivering, crouching, chattering individual trying to hide between a canvas tree and a rustic gate. To my amazement it was Albert."

"He grabbed me with two ice cold hands and clung to me for dear life. He said he'd die if he had to get out there before all those people. Oh, he moaned, wouldn't I save him?"

"I looked him in the eye and said, 'Albert, this is just another phase of the artistic temperament and I won't flicker an eyelash to help you! And if you fall in your part I—I'll leave home!'"

"Albert was ill two days after the play from the nervous strain and when he got up and around he was quite sane again. And I may add, he's a great deal more humble than he used to be!"

SAYS PRE-EMPTORS RULE NOMINATIONS

Court Holds to Previous Decision in Contest Trials.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 10.—The Dauphin county court held to its previous ruling that pre-emptors have the right to say who shall run under the party names, in deciding contests of nomination cases in the first trials of the long series which will be heard in the next week.

As a result of this stand, the Washington party nomination papers of the president pro tem, of the state senate, George M. Wertz, Johnstown, and of men friendly to him were declared defective, and the Bull Moose and Roosevelt Progressive nomination papers of Congressman Thomas S. Butler, Seventh district; Senator William C. Sprull, Seventh district, and legislative candidates, William T. Ramsey, First Delaware or Chester district, and R. J. Baldwin and H. H. Heyburn, Second district of Delaware, were upheld. A Philadelphiaan, Representative Thomas F. McNichol, won his case because of failure of his opponent to prosecute promptly.

$2,000,000 TRUST FUND IS VOID

Mrs. Eddy's Bequest is Set Aside by Court.

Boston, Oct. 10.—A trust, estimated at $2,000,000, created by the will of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science church, for the benefit of the denomination, was declared void by the Massachusetts supreme court.

The court holds, however, that a charitable trust has been created and that new trustees may be appointed to administer it.

The trust was to have been administered by the directors of the mother church in Boston, but the court decided that the trust provisions were nullified under the statute limiting the amount of the income from bequests to religious organizations to $2000 annually.

The court dismissed the bill brought by the contestants of the will, who alleged that the teachings of Christian Science were against public policy. The contestants, however, are given thirty days in which to bring in additional evidence to connect their

ALL BALKANS IN WAR IS REPORT

Two More States Join Hostilities Against Turkey.

MAY INVOLVE BIG POWERS

Conflict, If Allowed to Go to Any Length, May Involve the Whole of Europe.

London, Oct. 10.—The long-expected war in the Balkans, that may involve the whole of Europe, if allowed by the powers to go to any length, is on.

Following the lead of Montenegro, which declared war against Turkey, Bulgaria and Serbia have broken off diplomatic relations with Constantinople, and a state of war now exists between the Ottoman government and the three kingdoms to the north, according to advices received in London.

A news agency dispatch from Paris says confirmation of the rupture of diplomatic relations with Turkey by both Bulgaria and Serbia has been received there.

If these states have not already declared war it is believed everywhere that they are on the point of joining their mobilized armies to that of Montenegro, whose troops are said to be generally engaged with the Turks along the frontier. Should the two Balkan nations decide to appeal to arms about half a million soldiers of the Balkan states, who have been concentrating for the past week, will be ready to oppose the Turkish army. The numbers of the Ottoman troops in European Turkey are understood to total several hundred thousand.

It is generally recognized that the intervention of the European ambassadors at the Porte cannot now have any effect. Greece seems for the present to be holding back. She made her last protest to the powers against the seizure by the Ottoman government of Greek vessels in Turkish waters.

News from the scene of action is very meager. A dispatch from Constantinople is authority for a statement that a Montenegrin detachment which had crossed the frontier has been annihilated, and that 4000 Albanian troops have invaded Montenegro. Skirmishes are also reported to have occurred on the Serbian and Bulgarian frontiers.

A Bulgarian force is reported to have crossed the Turkish frontier and Czar Ferdinand is said to be hurrying southward to take command of the allied Balkan troops, who, it is expected, will advance to give battle to the Turkish forces at Mustapha Pasha, with the object of forcing the road to Adrianople, where the Turks are concentrated in great strength.

Berlin was excited by a report that Russia had ordered the mobilization of ten army corps on the western frontier to be completed in ten days, and that martial law would then be proclaimed in Russian Poland. Some diplomats thought Russia was preparing for the war that might set the powers at each other's throats.

A dispatch to the Vienna Neues Wiener Tagblatt from Oltienitz, Roumania, reports a massacre of Turks by Bulgarians at Turturkaia, Bulgaria, on Monday. According to the dispatch, agitators from Rusechuk inflamed the local Bulgarians, and these in the dead of night attacked the Turkish residents of the town, slaying all but a few, who escaped across the border to Oltienitz. Witnesses are quoted as saying that the police shared in the slaughter and in the pillage which followed. On Tuesday morning, the dispatch states, the street of the Turkish quarter was lined with piles of bodies, among them those of women and children.

Men Leaving For War.
Gary, Ind., Oct. 10.—Several departments of the steel mills here may be compelled to close, it was reported, on account of the great number of men who are determined to return to their native countries to participate in the war against Turkey. More than 1500 men, it was said, refused to report for work.

Maryland Horseman Dies When Mare Falls to Win Trotting Heat.

York, Pa., Oct. 10.—"The old horse is not as good as she used to be," said Lewis Campbell, of Arlington, Md., to one of his helpers after having finished the second heat in a trotting race at the York county fair.

Then Campbell stepped from his sulky and fell dead at the door of his stables. The mare had finished fifth in a field of seven.

Boston 1 0 1.000

New York 0 1 .000

Boston, Oct. 10.—It was a fiercely fought contest that took place at Fenway park in the second game of the world's series between the Giants and Red Sox, and it ended in the twilight an eleven inning tie, with a score of 6 to 6. It hummed with aggressive action, no world's series contest and few of any other kind equalling it in that regard or in the relentless purpose with which it was fought by both sides.

The two teams went at it hammer and tongs from the start. The lead swung back and forth, which added to the excitement already feverish because of the hard hitting with which the game abounded, and the brilliant fielding and ragged fielding.

The Giants batted their way from behind and with the utmost tenacity hung on to the Red Sox until they had snatched the lead away from them in the eighth inning. Fully as tenacious the Red Sox repented with heavy fire and tied the Giants in the eighth inning and again in the tenth. The scoring ceased with the tenth inning.

It was the battle-scarred veteran, Christy Mathewson, whom McGraw chose to face the heavy hitting Red Sox and stop them in their determination to go straight down the line winning victories. At recurrent periods Matty was bumped savagely by the Red Sox, but he stood up to the punishment like a major and with stout heart came back with the best he had and survived more than one dangerous situation.

Not an iota less ruthless was the batting of the Giants. The Giants had the satisfaction of knocking one Boston pitcher out of the box, Ray Collins, the south pride of the Hub, who was forced to vacate the domain in the eighth inning. Hall took his place, and after the Giants scored a run in the tenth inning he was recalled and Bedient did the twirling.

An error by Lewis, however, a muffed fly, opened the way to the slugging solree which rocked Collins from his throne, and it was a costly error. The Red Sox outfielded the Giants and they were steadier and showed up more fully in the brilliant plays which came often. The only expensive New York mislay was a muffed foul by Merkle. Fletcher was the weak spot in the New York fortress. His errors were extremely costly. In truth, five Boston runs can be traced directly to the transgressions of the unfortunate Fletcher. He muffed a liner and lost a chance for a double play, he muffed a throw to stop a steal, and he let a grounder go through him. There were men on bases every time he did these things and the men on bases scored.

HOTLY ASSAILS PERKINS

Spreckels Declares He is Really Agent of the "Interests."

New York, Oct. 10.—George W. Perkins, chairman of the executive committee of the Progressive party, is charged with being the real agent of "big business" and the "interests" in the 1912 campaign, in a public letter sent to Progressive Republicans by Rudolph Spreckels, of California, head of the National Progressive Republican League, which is supporting Woodrow Wilson.

In part Mr. Spreckels says: "One of the curious shams of the present political campaign is the pose of George W. Perkins as a friend of the Progressive cause. To those who see beneath the surface of political pretense, he is merely the agent of 'big business' at the third party's councils. Underlying Mr. Perkins' real aim is a desire to control the machinery of the government in an effort to protect big business and the monopolies he helped to create."

"How can Mr. Perkins sustain his pretensions of interest in the welfare of the wage worker when he is in reality an officer of a corporation which has been notoriously oppressive of the wage earner?"

COUNT SUES FOR $100

Loaned Money to Pay Hotel Bill Before He Was Married.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Count Kalman L. Csaky, who married Mrs. Maude Inman six months after she was divorced from Bryan Inman, a wealthy lumberman of Portland, Ore., was sued here by Mrs. A. E. Waller, of New York city, for $100.

Mrs. Waller's attorney says that the money was lent to the count to pay his hotel bill and that he promised to repay it after he was married. "He said that he would have plenty of money after his wedding," the attorney who represents Mrs. Waller said, "but he did repay my client's husband a little more than $4000 which he borrowed while in this country."
